THE CANADIAN ALPS

The people of Canada are somewhat slow to recognize the splendid mountain which they possess in the Rockies. The revenue producing quality of the Rockies as a tourist resort may be realized when it is stated that the Swiss Alps, which in this little country a year or so ago sold a million francs more than the government of the country received from all other sources.

As a pleasure resort for tourists the Alps are far outdone. The Alps are visited merely for the fine scenery and the field which they offer to the mountain climber. The Rockies are said to surpass them in grandeur and then there is the added attraction of almost every variety of shooting and fishing. The mountain streams abound in trout while deer, elk, grizzly bears and other big game can be met with.

The day will not be far distant when an enormous tourist business will be carried on in connection with the Canadian Rockies. As at present they are not exploited nearly enough.

THE ROYAL VISIT

The great day has come and again the British Empire is united in the royal greeting to the Hereditary Prince and Princess of Wales.

Those who doubt the unity and immovability of the Empire had best to witness the legal demonstration of the thousands of people in full regalia, although not insignificant portions of "Britishness" to be convinced of our allegiance to British rule.

We are no longer the people of a colony, moved by the puppets of the will of the British colonial office, but a nation free and progressive and moving as one.

The King of England. And on Saturday we gave him our undivided allegiance.

A welcome fitting the future ruler of the Empire.

There is another feature of the Royal visit. It is the first time that Royalty has paid us as it were an official visit and it marks an era in our progress and advancement.

A newspaper in England has accompanied the Royal party round the world states that although there has been more elaborate regimens, none could compare to the spontaneous demonstration of loyalty.

It was a pity that His Royal Highness could not remain longer, but he has had a most wearisome journey and he must have some rest.

It is safe to assert that the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York to Calgary will always be remembered as the proudest day in the history of Alberta.

A BAD SHOWING

The Winnipeg Free Press, the labor organ, quotes a letter of protest to show that Canadian people are not ignorant of certain social inequalities. Perhaps they are. But what do the masses of McKinley, a man of semi-savage type, an ignorant, Pole with insufficient intelligence to understand the workings of any social system, know of social injustice. He was a murderer by education, and probably by nature. Suppose everyone on the continent of America had an equal share in the rule of life, the chances are that the unhappy man who is now awaiting his doom at Buffalo would not have been in any better position than he was when he conceived the idea of firing the fatal shot. Anarchy is bred of jealousy and enmity and little else. There are inequalities of our social system and there are abuses that grow very hard upon the laboring classes, but to assert that anarchy and outrage and murder are the outcome of them, is but to hold up the assassin as a martyr and furnish incentive to further throat.

A MODERN INQUISITION

A New York paper gravely states that a confession from the assassin of President McKinley was extracted by means of torture, and commenting upon the matter, was of the opinion that such methods were evil, right and proper. It is almost appalling to hear such a gravely expressed opinion from a leading paper published in the metropolis of a new world.

It must be taken for granted that it is not usual for United States officials to endeavor to further the ends of justice by torturing the accused. It is only proper that the machinery of justice should be all these accused of misdeeds on an equal plane and if it is necessary to the constitution to admit James Z. Kennedy, who took a pond shot at his residence from behind a fence, in pursuance of a family feud to the ordeal of torture, why is it wrong to do the same in the case of a man who shot the President of the United States? The confession extracted by bodily pain, does all the value.

At all points where the royal party has stopped the actual thing has been taken part in the great day. The people of the city are so full of enthusiasm that nothing is being done in this line in Calgary. Perhaps it is a little late, however, to make a move in this direction.

The flowers are grilling themselves upon their resistance. They have a good chance however, to stay with it, as the British are providing for their wives and children.

La Hachas, in Colombia, which was long time ago bombarded by a Venezuelan vessel, has been evacuated by the Colombians, and occupied by the Venezuelans. The Venezuelans are united under the name of Liberals. The President of Venezuela says his country is not at war with Colombia. No one outside of them previously understood the politics of the South African republic; and the war was becoming a political question in the politics—Montreal Gazette.

Trees and parks and boulevards pay, as the Toronto Telegram says, a tribute to the city. They make a city bright and beautiful. They attract summer visitors and permanent residents. We are not sufficiently alive to the advantage to be gained from a systematic tree planting that in a few years would turn our residential localities into splendid parks. Such spots are good breathing places for the general public. The city of New York has a tree planting association that gives free attention to this matter. During the first half of the present year it has planted 200 trees in the city parks and squares. Other places are carrying on similar work on an even more extensive scale, and every town, great or small can and should do something in the same direction.

Paine's Celery Compound CURES CHRONIC AND COMPLICATED CASES OF RHEUMATISM.

It Banishes Every Trace of Poisonous Acid from the Blood.

His Made More Permanent and Wonderful Cures than all other Medicines in the World.

All rheumatic sufferers dread the variable and trying weather of October and November. Sufferers from various forms of rheumatism—articular, muscular, inflammatory and lumbago—suffer more intensely in the autumn months. Chilling winds, damp air, cold rains and night frosts, aggravate existing rheumatism.

Thousands of victims of rheumatism have come back from summer health resorts only to find themselves worse than when they started for their false hopes of health. Mineral springs, baths and massage systems can never drive out the morbid influence of torrid rheumatism from the blood and joints.

Careful medical tests, and a long experience prove that Paine's Celery Compound is the only agent and medicine for the cure of all forms of rheumatism, and succeeds where everything else fails. With a confidence created and strengthened by thousands of victories over rheumatism, we urge suffering men and women to use Paine's Celery Compound, its marvelous virtues will meet your case and do for you what it has done for others. Mrs. J. Vince of Harris, Ohio, says:

"I am happy to say I have taken Paine's Celery Compound with great results. I had scatica so badly that I could not sit in bed or walk without help, and for a period of three weeks was helplessly laid up and suffered pain that at times was almost unbearable. I tried many medicines, but all in vain. I was afterwards recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. I used six bottles and am entirely cured, and enjoy good health. I take great pleasure in recommending the valuable medicine that cured me."

AN HONOR FOR THE POLICE

Ottawa, Sep. 26.—To the North West mounted police has been delegated the important task of furnishing the escorts for his royal highness, and only at Regina and Calgary, where the constables are upon their native heath, so to speak, but also at Vancouver and Victoria.

There are no mounted police stationed in British Columbia, and an escort will have to be especially sent over the mountains to the coast line. The reason for this action is that there are no cavalry regiments in British Columbia.

DIAMOND DYES AND DIAMOND DYE MAT AND RUG PATTERNS.

SEA SERPENTS OF THE PACIFIC

It is coming to be pretty well recognized by everybody that while "the sea serpent may be a myth," sea serpents are actual facts, and in some cases are common enough. It is not so generally known, however, except to scientists and those who have made an especial study of the subject, that a large percentage of the species and varieties of sea serpents are highly venomous.

Sea snakes should not be confounded with the very numerous species of sea eels, which, though exceedingly savage, and armed with strong pointed teeth, are all non-venomous. Their bite, however, produces a high inflammation, and if it is not attended to and treated with antiseptic dressing.

The sea serpent is a true snake in many respects, having a thick, corded body, a long, pointed head, and a forked tongue. The head is flat, and the general structure of the body is similar to the land snake. Whether it possesses the true poison glands or not, is a question; but a bite from one regarded by the natives of the lands washed by the sea in which the serpents disport themselves as always fatal. The Island of Portu, Tuva Straits, the shores of Guinea, and the Great Barrier reef of Australia, are the favorite haunts of the sea serpent. It has been found in almost any tropical water. About the Great Barrier reef it can be seen any day, when the sea is smooth disporting themselves on the surface, and sometimes from the depths. They will spring out of the water, erect their heads and slare at a passing vessel for a moment, and then swiftly disappear again.

In all the Pacific Islands the natives hold them in detestation with horror, and when one is seen curled on the top of a rock taking a sunbath, or crawling along a reef in search of food, a stone accompanied by a curse, is always thrown at the serpent by the natives. Most of the fishermen of the Pacific are so characterized by their stout and fearless nature.

There is plenty of evidence of the deadliness of the bite of one of these serpents. A case occurred near the island, in the Tuva Straits. A starling young Kanaka, one of the crew of a passing vessel, was diving for shells on a reef, when a serpent about three feet in length, and only shot up from below within a few inches of his head, and bit him on the neck. The Kanaka, unfortunately struck the serpent with his fist, and was quickly bitten on the forehead a few hours later he was in a high fever, accompanied by itching and the extremities. Lockjaw followed. The man died in great agony 48 hours after he had been bitten.

In fishing for flying fish at night among the Ellice Islands, it is no uncommon thing to find two or three of these hideous creatures in the net. That great serpent which turns up from the abyss of the sea, and "sleep" now and then, to serve as an attraction for summer tourists to the seashore, or to furnish the foundation of a sea story, may not be taken for granted. A few accounts seem to have had some foundation, but few have been so naturalistic as the "left hand" of the famous and prehistoric era of the world may exist, but the reptile is one of the "not proven" cases.

Of the existence of the venomous sea serpents of the tropic sea, however, there is no manner or shadow of doubt. They are to be found in the Indian ocean and the south Pacific as the shark is in the Hudson, but are far less welcome, and of no use as far as can be ascertained. The best known species of these actual and up to date sea serpents have received the rather high sounding and respectable names of hydrophils and platyrhynchus. The hydrophilus is probably the most common variety of sea serpent. He is a green animal with a yellowish underbody, and is covered with black blotches. The platyrhynchus is the largest and most dreaded creature of the sea.

a paper I wrote to him, asking criticism for one of his reported statements and write a second article about the subject of the bridge, which was one of the biggest undertakings of its time. I replied, saying that "Daddy" cared to come he should have every privilege, but I didn't let anybody else. Sure enough they'dy' came, and a great time was had by all; and everything was looked after in a grand way. The festival was wonderful. He was like a feudal prince, with a summary of facts, as well. Years afterwards I wrote The Bridge Builders, and he used the information he picked from me and my men then, it is as accurate as possible. There's no reason why the story should hang. As far as I can see, every one of his engineering stories is absolutely correct.

How Royalty Sweeps the Seas.

The Ophir is in Canadian waters now. How Eric the Bold, that Northern Norseman that swept the Northern seas, would rub his eyes could he behold, as it carries England's future King the splendid Viking ship of today... The Viking ship that bore him and his Royal Consort across the great waters to the uttermost parts of the British Empire.

But the Misericorde, the Viking ship of old and H. M. S. Ophir differ. The old wolf of the seas swept the waters for glory and splendor. The Duke of York and Cornwall crosses the seas now it is his duty—as well as his pleasure to visit and know the peoples he will some day rule as King.

When this tour of the British Empire, a tour of over 30,000 miles, was decided upon, the first question was, "How can we get to the remotest parts of the world for a Royal Journey. Three important factors were essential, comfort, speed and economy. The answer was found in the S.S. Ophir, now the Royal Yacht Ophir, which was originally built for service on the London-Australia. No vessel in the whole world was better adapted for the purpose, fitted for, or with equal ease adapted to this special service. Her hull was of the finest steel, her double bottom also subdivided into watertight compartments, the water-tight bulkheads and other parts of the hull similar precautions taken in her build, make it obvious to the voyager that the vessel was built to withstand more than an extraordinary casualty to cause total displacement. The Ophir is a vessel that can proceed with the other 24 ships in the fleet at a speed of 18 knots greater speed. Her length is 453 feet, her draught 26 feet, her maximum speed 18 knots.

AGENTS.

City Council.

The fortnightly meeting of the city council was held Thursday night Mayor Mackie in the chair, and the following "business present": Underwood, Wright, Emerson, Hatfield and O'Sullivan.

The People's Co-operative society were complaining about the state of the street opposite their store. Mr. H. Hayward, agent of the Manitoba board of underwriters, wrote the council enclosing a report from Inspector Howe, who recently visited Calgary and inspected the fire appliances.

The report is very lengthy and somewhat critical, and the mayor of underwriters want to know what the city had to do about it.

S. B. C. 125, on behalf of the tenants on the Alexander corner, wrote complaining about the bad smells from the Chinese quarters, immediately west of the building. The tenants say that the Chinese laundry men were continually throwing soap and dirty water on the ground.

On behalf of the tenants, Mr. Lee asked the council to take some action to abate the nuisance.

J. A. Young, writing offering $10 for lots 4 to 8 in block six, section four.

M. H. Brown, petitioned for an extension of sidewalk, 140 feet on Second street west, and requested the full amount of the frontage tax paid.

After reading the communications the council resolved itself into a committee of appeal to receive any communications that might be presented in connection with sewer and boulevard construction under the local improvement system, and also where communications were referred to the various committees.

James Horvay was the only citizen to appear before the council, and his complaint was somewhat outside the jurisdiction of the meeting. He did not appeal against the assessment on the ground of the rate being excessive; he considered it a hardship that he should have to pay his share on the cost of the construction of two sewers.

He only make use of his. His property being in a corner, he has a large lot on both sides. He considered that the city should pay the whole cost of one of these sewers. After some discussion, Mr. Horvay was advised to put his complaint in writing and submit it to the next meeting of the council.

The finance committee put in a report stating that owing to lack of funds, they could not recommend the purchase of any additional number of the Calgary directory and street pamphlets.

The public works committee presented a lengthy report dealing with several matters in regard to the claim of The Herald company for damages done to paper and stock through the sealing of their basement, while the city engineer was sealing the Strophus avenue.

The committee recommended that the engineer be appointed to investigate the cause of the flooding and also the reported damage to sewers caused by unauthorized persons getting into them.

In regard to T. A. Hatfield's application, they recommended that the proposed alterations to one of his houses must be carried out in accordance with the terms of the building by-law.

The committee also recommended that a fire hydrant and an air light be placed on First street west, between Cuthbert's factory and the Catholic church.

Finally, the committee recommended that petitions for the following sidewalks and boulevard work be accepted, and construction work commenced as soon as possible, under the franchise system.

From A. R. Cross et al. for a sidewalk on section 14. From W. H. Manary et al. for sidewalk on Hamilton avenue and First street west. From C. T. Jones et al. for sidewalk on First street west. From A. Carson for a sidewalk and boulevard on First street west from Northgate terrace to Regan avenue.

The waterworks reported recommending payment of the following:

R. C. Thomas $150
A. Milne 240
D. Suter 240
McNicol & company 240
W. D. Thurston 240

Nine local improvement petitions were provided for the draining of deleterious to cover the cost of sewerage and sewers constructed during the past summer, were introduced and read a first, second and third time and passed.

By a motion of Aldermen Emerson and Young, the $200 grant to pay the expense of the royal reception was ordered to be placed to the credit of the reception committee, to be checked out of the city treasury on orders signed by the chairman and secretary.

Aldermen Craig and Spafford moved that the sewer and waterworks on Reliance avenue, be extended from Turner House's house west to serve the new residence erected on that time. Also the same on Northcote avenue to accommodate the new house of C. C. Comer, A. Rovee, P. Adams and others.

A MOON STORY.

The vagaries of the moon have been often described in verse and prose, and it seems a shame to make that poor, overworked "bright repeat of the heavens" stand for an ordinary female tale. But the detective who went hunting in the north woods thought it a pretty fair joke, even though it was at the expense of the long suffering moon.

The party was in the hands of one of those rare old guides who make a living finding and leading people, and steering hunters out of the way of game. They had been hired in the fall time, one night and were only trying to find their way out to the clearing. The guide was as good as dead.

"Where is the moon?" said one of the party. "Where does it rise in this locality?"

"Well, ye can't tell it anything about it," drawled the guide, "half the time it doesn't come up at all."

THE FUGITIVE.

A hunted thing through copse and wood,
Night after night he skulked and hid,
To where small dark homesteads
One gloomy garden, locked and walled.

He paused in fear each step he took,
And waited till the moon was gone,
Then he went in by the little brook
That still laughed down the fern-side lawn.

And the well-known path he crept,
And through the longed-for house,
And he, while those who sought him
Saw his ancestral home once more.

There song and lights were still
And by her he could see one
Who gazed so far to her!

Who spoke with her and took her hand,
Then back by copse and wood he crept,
While yet the dawn was cold and dim,
And while in her white room she slept.

'Twas he should bound crawling back
With him.

COQUETTED WITH RALPH.

Little Miss Ellisor Brown, baby daughter of the secretary-treasurer of the Montreal Amateur Athletic association, will on all to pride herself upon the fact, when she is grown up, that she was probably the only girl in Montreal who coquetted with his royal highness in the very presence of his royal consort and wound up by snubbing him, to the surprise and disgust of the royal couple, strange as this may seem.

Mr. Brown and his family reside in Westmount, and they all went out including little Miss Ellisor, to the corner of Melville avenue to see the royal procession pass on the way to Victoria park.

The little girl had been carried by her aunt and held in her hand an immense bouquet of violets, which she placed in the garden but a short time previous. As the procession approached little Miss Ellisor's aunt, she noticed the lady carrying the child with the big bunch of violets, she ordered the child to go aside and smiling waved his hand to the little girl, while the duchess also bent forward and smiled at her. Promptly little Miss Ellisor held out her hand of violets to the duke, but when he better reached out his hand for them she turned and smilingly gave them to the duke's wife, who was having, drew back the flowers and firmly refused to surrender them. Both the duke and duchess seemed to greatly enjoy the "flair" and ordering the carriage to proceed, waved their hands to her as they sped on.

We also extend our congratulations upon your well deserved promotion to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Wishing you long life and continued success. Signed in behalf of this lodge, J. Buchanan, secy. John Smithers, M.W.

An Inspector of N.W.M.P. Lieut. Col. McDennell has been stationed at Moonshine and Montreal.

THE SANITY OF THE ASSASSIN.

Buffalo, Sept. 24th.—Leon F. Colquhoun, whose trial for the assassination of President McKinley, is to be held Monday, was examined as to his sanity for four hours this afternoon by Dr. Carter P. McDonald, of New York, the eminent physician, who was for years chairman of the state board of the lunacy commission.

The prisoners, counsel, Judges Lewis and Titus, were present at different times during the examination. At its close Dr. McDonald declined to discuss the case and the attorneys would not express their opinion as to the assassin's mental condition, although the inference drawn from their answers was that they believed Colquhoun to be sane.

Dr. McDonald was brought to Buffalo through the efforts of Professor Root and others, as the association has promised to assist Judge Lewis and Titus who were suggested as counsel for the defense by the trustees of the bar association.

The examination was held in the private office of District Attorney Purvis in the city and county jail, preparations for it being kept secret. Judges Lewis and Titus appeared at the city hall a few minutes before 3 o'clock and were taken to the district attorney's private office at 213 Chicago.

Superintendent Cusack of the police department. He had been taken through the tunnel under Delaware avenue. The prisoner was left alone with Judges Lewis and Titus.
